vs.

THEODORE ROBERT BUNDY,

Defendant.

The Keeper of Records for the Division of Adult Probation and Parole, State of Utah, is located in the Social Services Building, Salt Lake City, Utah, a distance of four hundred fifty (450) miles from Aspen, Colorado. This person's presence will be required on September 20, 1977.

The Keeper of Records is to produce a presentence report concerning defendant which contains an interview with Carol DaRonch. In this interview Ms. DaRonch discusses her recollection of certain pretrial identification procedures which defendant believes caused her to misidentify him in a line-up held on October 2, 1975. Adult Probation and Parole personnel refused to give the defendant or his counsel a copy of the presentence report. Neither defendant nor his counsel have had an opportunity to read this report. However, a social worker ~~at~~ the Utah State Prison did give defendant a synopsis of Ms. DaRonch's comments contained in the report, and these comments would be useful and relevant to defendant's attempt to prove that Ms. DaRonch's identification of him was a product of constitutionally impermissible suggest causing substantial likelihood of misidentification.

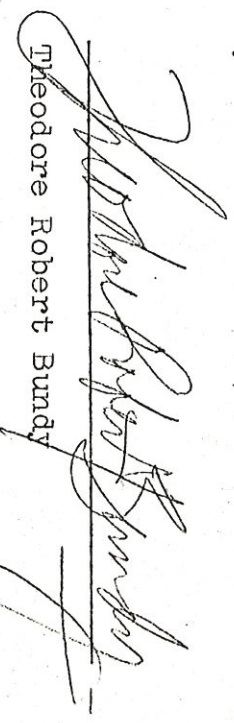

Defendant believes he has a right to this report and that it would be a material aid in the forthcoming suppression hearing.

Tony Cox is the Director of the Driver's License Division for the State of Utah which is located at 314 State Office Building, Salt Lake City, Utah, a distance of four hundred fifty (450) miles from Aspen, Colorado. His presence will be required on September 20, 1977.

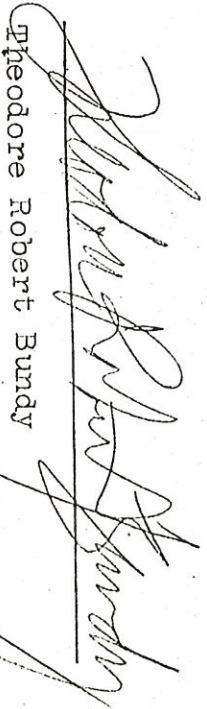

He is to produce documents and records kept by his agency relating to a driver's license photograph ordered by the police sometime during 1975, and subsequently shown to a kidnapping victim, Carol Daronch. It is alleged that upon viewing this photograph of defendant Ms. Daronch stated that this looked "the most like him (her abductor) of any of them". Defendant believes that the showing of this photograph is part of a chain of impermissibly suggestive pretrial confrontations which tainted her subsequent line-up identification. It is essential that the defendant knows when this driver's license photograph was ordered and who ordered it. For this reason, documentary evidence in Mr. Cox's possession or control is relevant and material to a hearing where defendant seeks to demonstrate that Carol Daronch's identification of him was procured in a manner violating due process of law.

MOTION FOR MODIFICATION OF

vs.

THEODORE ROBERT BUNDY,
Defendant.

COMES NOW Theodore Robert Bundy, defendant pro se, and states and alleges as follows:

1. On June 13, 1977, the Court ordered that the defendant could be kept in leg shackles during courtroom appearances.

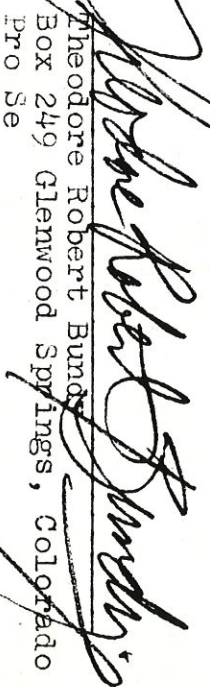

2. In the course of conducting his own defense, defendant will be required to examine numerous witnesses during a suppression of evidence hearing scheduled to begin September 20, 1977. For the defendant to be forced to wear shackles while questioning these witnesses would be humiliating and would otherwise interfere with the examination process.

3. The dignity and decorum of the Court would also suffer from the spectral of a shackled individual attempting to question witnesses during this crucial hearing.

4. The defendant has never threatened nor exhibited assaultive or violent behavior while inside or outside the courtroom. He is not a danger to himself or others while in the courtroom.

WHEREFORE, defendant moves that he not be handcuffed or shackled during the actual suppression hearing scheduled for September 20, 1977, and that if restraints must be used, they be used during court recesses.
